

Creating PDF Documents

Macintosh

The ability to create PDF documents is built in to Mac OS X. From any application, the print dialog will have an option to save the document as PDF:

Windows

If you have Adobe Acrobat Professional (not the free Acrobat Reader) installed, you will have the ability to create PDF documents from any application (such as Word).

If you do not have Acrobat Professional, there are two free options. You may need to contact your Information Technology support for installation help.

- FinePrint pdfFactory Pro is available on Academic Computing's DVD tower (your Information Technology support will have access to this)
- PDFCreator is available at <http://www.pdfforge.org/products/pdfcreator/download>

After installation, the PDF option will appear along with your other printers in the print dialog: File > Print...
